Red River Gives Up Body of Murder Victim

Body of Traveling Salesman Is Found Floating in Water

Gruesome Murder Mystery Uncovered Near Toll Bridge

IN WATER TEN DAYS

Reports Say Man Had Been Shot and Stabbed, Thrown in Water

The body of a man tentatively identified as a traveling salesman of Dallas, Texas, was found at 11 a. m. Thursday just west of the Fulton toll bridge.

Reports said the man had been shot and stabbed and apparently thrown into backwaters of Red river.

The condition of the body showed that he had been in the water possibly 10 days or longer.

Discovery of the body was made by Elton Hannibal, a bridge worker, who was quoted as saying that the body was floating near the bridge.

The man was well-dressed, wore a Masonic ring, and appeared to be about 35 or 40 years old.

The man was tentatively identified by a card that was found in one of his pockets, bearing the address of Dallas, Texas.

The water was about waist deep at the point where the body was discovered. It was possible that he could have been tossed into the water from an automobile at the point where the gruesome discovery was made.

Hannibal, who found the body, summoned aid and several men waded into the water and brought the body to the surface. A Texarkana ambulance was called and the body taken there.

Among the Moors, if a wife does not become the mother of a boy, she may be divorced with the consent of the tribe and may marry again.

Frank J. Hill Gets in Race for County and Probate Clerk

Well-Known Hempstead Man Will Make Active Campaign

SEEKS FIRST OFFICE

Urges Voters to Give His Candidacy Careful Consideration

Today's issue of Hope Star carried the formal announcement of Frank J. Hill as a candidate for County and Probate Clerk of Hempstead county.

Mr. Hill is a native of Hempstead county, having been born and reared in Spring Hill township south of Hope. He is the son of the late Dr. G. N. Hill.

Spring Hill is still the home of Mr. Hill, having resided there all of his life.

He is a graduate of Spring Hill High School, and for several years taught school in the southern part of the county. For the past four years he has been connected with the Hempstead County Agricultural agent's office in Hope.

Last December Mr. Hill severed his relations with the county agent's office and accepted the appointment as field representative of the Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation; a temporary appointment which expires on April 20.

At that time he expects to begin an active campaign for the office he seeks at the hands of the Democratic voters in the August primary.

Mr. Hill announced that he is making the race on his merits and qualifications. He is favorably known throughout the county and is asking for political office for the first time.

He asks the voters of the county to give his candidacy their careful consideration.

Mr. Hill is the first to formally announce as a candidate for the office of County and Probate Clerk.

Woman Is Grilled About Skeleton

Mrs. Cora Hebler Denies That Skeleton Is That of Her Husband

POCAHONTAS, Ark. —(AP)—Mrs. Cora Treuba Hebler, 50, told a coroner's jury here that a skeleton found in a storm cellar at a farm home she formerly occupied near here was not that of her invalid husband, Will Hebler, who has been missing several months.

"We are proceeding with the investigation on the theory that the body was that of her husband," asserted Prosecuting Attorney Shelby C. Ferguson.

He said the coroner's jury had "several angles" to investigate further in the case and probably would not return its verdict until Saturday.

Mrs. Hebler was arrested at Miami, Fla., and returned here on a bench warrant charging her with murder. The warrant did not name the asserted victim.

After viewing the skeleton dug up from the cellar shortly after she was located a farm five miles northwest of here, Mrs. Hebler told the coroner's jury during four hours of questioning that she had no idea whose it could be.

She asserted that if the body was placed in the cellar while she was on the farm that it was done at night and without her knowledge.

Mrs. Hebler said she did not know her husband was located at present and denied telling Florida authorities that he was alive and in Africa.

Sheriff John T. Thompson said neighbors complained to him concerning Hebler's disappearance and that upon investigation Mrs. Hebler told him she had placed her husband in a St. Louis hospital.

Coroner H. G. McNabb said that three persons had identified a belt found about the skeleton as one worn by Hebler. Ferguson reported the skeleton had four gold teeth and that several had testified Hebler had "quite a few" such teeth.

Board Fails Take Action on Phipps

No Action Taken on Reported Plans to Oust Commissioner

LITTLE ROCK —(AP)—The State Board of Education, in session here Thursday, transacted routine business and then adjourned without taking any action on reported plans to make a change in the post of State Education Commissioner, now held by W. E. Phipps.

The first well in that section, it extended the Jones sand producing area about a quarter mile south and was the 21st completion in the Jones sand.

The well produced 639 barrels of oil in 13 hours on a 24-61 inch choke after being swabbed in but will probably be pinched back to the current 700 barrels daily allowable as soon as it has been cleaned out.

Well Still Burning
SHREVEPORT, La. —(AP)—The Petroleum Heat and Power company's W. R. Williams No. 1 well in the Dollet Hills area of De Soto parish caught fire Wednesday morning while the crew was arranging to plug and early Wednesday afternoon was still burning. Whether it is a commercial well is not yet known.

Rig and derrick were destroyed by the fire, origin of which was not immediately known.

The well is in a proved field, recently opened. The state conservation department sent a representative to the scene to investigate.

The East Texas timber belt is capable of yielding 100,000,000 cords of wood suitable for pulp manufacture.

Lineup Announced for Grid Contest

Game Here Next Tuesday Night to End Spring Training

Coach Foy Hammons announced Thursday the probable lineup that will oppose in high school football team in a game to be played at the athletic stadium next Tuesday night.

The contest will climax two weeks of spring training for candidates of the 1938 team. Hammons' starting lineup will be announced probably Friday or Monday.

Here is the team that will oppose the high school squad:

Ends—Willard Anderson and Ray Turner.

Guards—G. V. Keith and Woodrow Parsons.

Center—Hugh Carson.

Backfield—Vasco Bright, Noble Masters, K. B. Spears and Edward Aslin.

Reserve players—Dick Moore, J. W. Dearden, Lowell McDaniel.

Edward Reilly Freed From Insane Asylum

RIVERHEAD, N. Y. —(AP)—Edward J. Reilly, who unsuccessfully defended Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the Lindbergh kidnapping trial, was freed Wednesday from King's Park state hospital for the insane by a jury in Suffolk county court.

Reilly, committed to the Brooklyn state hospital 14 months ago on the petition of his elderly mother, Mrs. Helen Reilly, announced he would return to his Brooklyn law office Thursday. He had been a patient in four institutions since January 30, 1937.

Golf Meeting Called to Meet Friday Night

All persons interested in playing golf this summer are urged to meet at Hope Furniture Company at 7:30 o'clock Friday night where an effort will be made to organize a local club. The meeting was called by Dr. F. D. Henry who said that between 30 and 40 persons were expected to attend.

Barney Bill Gets Approval; Defeat Bratton Measure

Senate Beats Bill That Would Reimburse Road Fund

WAS FUTRELL'S PLAN

House Drops Civil Service Fight—6 Bills Are Withdrawn

LITTLE ROCK —(AP)—The senate defeated Thursday, 19 to 18, a bill by Bratton of Paragould which would have reimbursed the state highway construction, and increase the county highway turnback.

The bill was offered by the author and its sponsors in direct opposition to the administration-backed Barney bill, which has been passed by both houses of the legislature.

9 Attempts to Block It
The Barney bill was approved late Wednesday by the house by a vote of 80 to 6. Nine futile attempts were made to amend the measure before it received overwhelming approval and was ordered sent to the governor's office.

Those voting against the Barney bill were Buerkle of Arkansas, Butt of Carroll, Johnson of Washington, McHaney of Pulaski, Roberts of Faulkner and Wilkinson of Sebastian.

Barney's bill would remove bridge tolls, appropriate $5,000,000 in federal aid/fund for trunk highway construction, prohibit collection of auto inspection fees, give the county turnback fund an additional fourth of a cent per gallon on gasoline tax collections and appropriate $1,000,000 for county road work for the period ending June 30, 1939.

The administration program contemplates the receipt from the government of half the costs of constructing the toll bridges, the money to enable the state to claim approximately $4,500,000 from the government allotment for highway work in fiscal 1937 and 1938. It has just been unable to claim the funds to date due to inability to match.

Quit Civil Service Fight
The house Thursday dropped its fight to nullify civil service by concurring in the senate amendment to the sanatoria building program which eliminated a section previously inserted by the house to relieve the civil service commission of its operating expenses.

Subsequently the house concurred in all senate amendments to the bill which went to the engrossing committee.

The house passed a bill to provide $100,000 for continuation of construction at the state blind school, thus remedying defective legislation which authorized the building program.

The house authorized a five-member committee to study methods and practices followed by the state civil service commission and its staff.

Complete Action
The senate completed action Thursday on one of the major subjects for which the special session was called by passing, 30 to 0, the Nichols-Nyberg tuberculosis sanatoria building program bill.

Acting to clear the calendar before the anticipated sine die adjournment Saturday, senators withdrew six bills Thursday.

One of them included a measure to appropriate funds to finance an Arkansas exhibit at the 1939 New York World's fair.

Another bill withdrawn had called for a tax on chain stores.

Mutiny on Jap Prison Vessel Is Reported

TOKIO —(AP)—Mutiny abroad a Japanese prison ship at sea was reported in a Yokosuka dispatch to the newspaper Yomiuri.

An outbreak by 27 youths aboard a reform school vessel was said to have been quelled, but a fast ship bearing 30 policemen put out for the prison ship, reported near the Bonin islands south of Tokio.

Fragmentary radio reports mentioned no casualties but said the ship was wallowing in heavy seas and in need of help.

Agri Leaders Open 2-Day Conference at Station Farm

22 South Arkansas Counties Represented First Day's Session

WORK IS EXPLAINED

Duties of Four Branch Stations Told by Dean Dan T. Gray

The first day's conference of 44 farm men and women representing county agricultural committees of 22 in south Arkansas counties, the second of a series of three state conferences of agricultural leaders, opened here Thursday with C. C. Randall, assistant extension director presiding.

Speaking on the duties and responsibilities of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, Dan T. Gray, dean and director, said, "While the headquarters of the College of Agriculture is at Fayetteville, its campus is the entire state of Arkansas. The College through its extension work serves all counties of Arkansas, having county agents and home demonstration agents in every county, 25 assistant agents in 21 counties, and 24 negro county agents and home demonstration agents in counties having large negro population.

Four Branch Stations
In addition to the main experiment station at Fayetteville, we have four branch experiment stations located in special areas of production to investigate farm problems of those areas. These include the Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment Station here in Hempstead county, Rice Branch Experiment Station in Arkansas county, Cotton Branch Experiment Station in Lee county, and the Livestock and Forestry Branch Experiment Station in Independence county which was acquired last year and which is now being developed.

"From these branch stations are conducted outlying experiments on farms conducted in co-operation with farmers in addition to the experimental work on these stations. In short, just as we go to the people with extension work, so do we go to the farm people with our experimental work, in order that the research program attacks the real problems of agriculture in this state," Dean Gray said.

Brannen on Program
Speaking on the scope of the research program of the College, Dr. C. C. Brannen said: "The criticism that the farmer is already too efficient, stated at times in an attempt to explain overproduction, expresses a complete misunderstanding of the farm problem. The inference in such a statement is that the farmer should take a roundabout course in accomplishing what he sets out to do, that he should use poor rather than good practices.

"Among outstanding experimental results of the College are the experiment of Arkansas Rowden cotton which because of premiums has added 2 to 3 million dollars to the Arkansas farmers' annual cotton income, the elimination of the cattle fever tick which was in a large measure the outgrowth of research work done by this state's station, and the method of spot-dusting cotton.

"The present day cultural methods of soil preparation, planting seed, time of seeding, number of plants per acre, kinds of fertilizers to use, and the depth and frequency of cultivation, all of these and many more of the processes of agriculture, have been given to the farmer after experimentation and study," Dr. Brannen concluded.

Ware Explains Work
The Fruit and Truck Branch Station is devoted to a considerable extent to the problems of the fruit and truck growers of the state, but it is also concerned with other farm and home problems of south Arkansas, including field crops, forestry, pastures, and landscaping. G. W. Ware, assistant director in charge of the Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment Station said explaining the work of the Branch Station.

A new government crisis seemed in the making in France Thursday. An outbreak of new strikes piled up the worry for the Popular Front government of Socialist Leon Blum.

The strikes, in Paris and the Lillie regions, were largely "symbolic" movements—halting work for only a few hours in an effort to force new collective contracts.

Earlier in the day a revolt flared in the French senate against the Popular Front government—specifically against Premier Blum's national defense financing plans.

Prime Minister Chamberlain Thursday served notice upon aggressor states that Britain would fight to fulfill her treaty obligations.

But he also declared to the House of Commons that Britain first must try to preserve peace.

In Britain's most important declaration of foreign policy since the World war, Chamberlain declared his confidence that "peace will be maintained."

In China, Thursday, counter attacking of the Chinese troops kept Japanese from crossing the Grand Canal 22 miles north of Suchow. Chinese were reported to be holding their own on all fronts.

Shipment of helium to Germany is being delayed, Secretary of the Interior Ickes disclosed. Ickes, who has the last word on sale abroad of helium from United States wells, said he has signed no contract with the American Zeppelin Transport, Inc., because he had found no formula to guarantee against military use of the gas.

Members of Ickes' staff said that "changed political conditions" in Europe had made it increasingly difficult to draw up such a formula.

Ickes' disclosure aroused speculation, particularly since it had been understood that arrangements had been completed formally for the German company to buy about 17,000,000 cubic feet for a new Zeppelin, the LZ 130, successor to the transatlantic Hindenburg, destroyed by a hydrogen explosion at Lakehurst, N. J.

The State Department refused to comment on Ickes' stand, but persons close to it said he was within his rights in seeking a contract to assure the helium would not be put to military use.

Barton Addresses Lumber Dealers

Plan to Encourage Industries Within State Is Discussed

LITTLE ROCK —(AP)—Col. T. H. Barton of El Dorado, president of the Lion Oil Refining company, told the Arkansas Association of Lumber Dealers the state could encourage development of industry within its borders by offering "tax exemptions for a short period of time" and providing "adequate transportation facilities and rates."

He outlined a three-point march-to-prosperity program for Arkansas which included "prosperity for the farmers, employment for all who can work and reasonable profit for private enterprise."

Col. Barton praised action of the lumbermen in support of a movement for enactment of a workmen's compensation law for Arkansas.

He urged the development of new crops which would produce year-round revenue and for which there would be a constant market. He mentioned stock raising as a promising field which would aid agricultural sections of the state.

What TVA Means to the Valley Country Is Shown in Report

Electricity Comes to the Country—A Step Along the Road of Rural Progress—Increased Power Use Attributed to Dam Output

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

DAYTON, Tenn.—TVA is more than teenening headquarters buildings in Knoxville, more than spectacular dams holding back great rivers, more than thick volumes of reports on research.

It is also power lines crossing fields that never saw their like before, and electric bulbs replacing oil lamps in farm homesteads.

Take the case of one average Tennessee Valley town as an example: Dayton is the town made famous in 1925 by the "monkey trial" or Scopes case in which William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow clashed over the teaching of evolution in the schools. What has TVA done to Dayton?

Evolution teaching is still barred in the Dayton schools, and the Bible is still prominently displayed on the waiting room table of Dr. G. V. Taylor, chairman of the city commission. But there are changes in Dayton, which was described 13 years ago as a typical backwoods "hillbilly" community.

Dayton Gets a Harbor
TVA electricity has helped bring about the change. Power is sold wholesale to a distribution system already municipally owned before TVA arrived.

Dr. Taylor, the dentist who is "mayor" of the town, tells of a full-fashioned hosiery mill nearing completion to take advantage of the power, and of plans under way for construction of docks and warehouses, for Dayton will be a river port when Chickasawga Dam backs water up to its doorstep.

F. E. Robinson, the druggist, in whose "country store" the Scopes argument began, and who still preserves among his new marbledtopped equipment the old wood-top-and-wire table around which the Scopes case was incubated, allows that the town is "200 per cent better off" than it was 10 years ago.

Power Use Increases
But the figures on growth of power use, compiled in the neat new municipal building beside the brick new federal postoffice building, tell the story:

	Feb. 1935	Feb. 1938
Total KWH	42,402	143,475
Residential customers	451	665

Shadow is a native who has traveled considerably, but who came back to Tennessee because it is his home and because he thinks rural life is preferable.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

(In this series of Cranium Crackers with a courtroom query, unusual local statutes may alter slightly the legal decisions given.)

Joe King owned a lumber yard. He sold certain specified lumber in the yard to Cunn Collins at an agreed price, it being understood, however, that Collins could remove the lumber at any time during the next six months provided he had first paid the purchase price. The next night a fire destroyed the lumber. Collins claimed that King had to bear the loss because King still owned the lumber and that the title to it was not to pass to Collins until he took the lumber and paid for it. Of course King claimed that title to the lumber had passed to Collins and that it was Collins' lumber which had burned and that therefore Collins had to pay King the agreed purchase price.

Who Cares Who Goes on What Stamp?

AW, come on boys, haven't you got more important things to haggle about than who goes on what postage stamp? There are plenty of other mighty fine issues, all tried and true, that you can concern yourself with. There is unemployment, for example, or the deficit, or the war scare.

And you, Mr. Bruce Barton, when you went down to Washington as representative from New York a lot of people thought you would head up a vigorous and well-intentioned minority group, something that hadn't been much in evidence since 1933. And you gave signs of doing just that. That's why disappointment was the general reaction to your recent accusation that Postmaster General Farley revised postage stamp designs merely as a "scheme to make sure that all Republicans are forgotten."

You said further: "The good spots are Democratic. Three cents, Jefferson; 6 cents, Jackson. Mr. Farley is their campaign manager as well as the President's. He is going to make sure that their memories are kept green."

NOW this is no case for Mr. Farley, whose right hand as chairman of the Democratic National Committee undoubtedly had some idea of what his left hand as postmaster general was doing to the nation's stamp designs. Mr. Farley honored all the deceased Presidents in order—except that he put Ben Franklin, founder of the postoffice system, on the 1-cent stamp and Martha Washington on the 1-1/2-cent. This revision took George Washington, who probably would be considered a Republican today, off both the 2-cent and 3-cent stamps. Thomas Jefferson was placed on the 3-cent, and John Adams, whose political beliefs were the same as Washington's, on the 2-cent. Washington was relegated to the 1-cent division. Lincoln moved up to the 15-cent class.

Representative Barton seems seriously concerned over the fate of Calvin Coolidge, whom Mr. Barton establishes as the "prophet and symbol of thrift and economy," heads up the $5 stamps. In all fairness it should be pointed out that this will be the first time Coolidge has ever appeared on any stamp. And there is the further consideration that some people would consider it an honor for their likeness to decorate the most expensive stamp issued by the United States government. As one stamp-collector said of the revision, "It certainly puts some of the Republicans in a more exclusive position."

So it is just barely possible that politics was the farthest thing from Mr. Farley's mind when he decided to rejigger the stamp setup. And there seems to be a good chance that, even if the postmaster general did have ulterior motives, such a dastardly purpose may not be accomplished. For many people honor greatly the sum of $5, even if it's represented by a postage stamp.

And finally, what difference does the whole business make? Suppose one Democratic President's face is seen a little oftener than that of a famous Republican President. After all, what do people do with postage stamps? First they—er—expectorate on them. Then they place them on an envelope and hit them just as hard as they can with the bottom of their fist.

Highway Sidewalks

THE state of Virginia's plan to cut down the toll of pedestrian deaths on the open highway seems altogether sensible. Under a bill passed unanimously by both houses of the general assembly and signed by Gov. James H. Price, the state highway commission will build sidewalks along the most heavily traveled roads.

The sidewalks are to be built at request of county boards of commissioners and each county must bear half the cost of construction within its borders. Henry G. Shirley, state highway commissioner, estimates that the walks will cost between $7000 and $8000 per mile.

That expense will be well justified if the new walkways bring a drop in the number of persons killed by cars on the open highway. Such accidents claimed more than 550 lives during the last three years.

Does Disease Stimulate the Mind of Genius?

(No. 482)
Frequently the question arises as to whether or not certain diseases stimulate those who suffer from them to extraordinary mental or physical activity. Sir Walter Scott, early in his childhood, had infantile paralysis. The famous Lord Byron was crippled, as was Steinmetz, one of America's greatest inventors.

Genius in literature and in painting has been frequently associated with starvation. It has even been asserted that syphilitic infection of the brain such as results in paresis may have been responsible for the extraordinary inventiveness of some of the great short story writers of the past.

Particular importance has been attached to tuberculosis as a concomitant of genius because many of the greatest writers of the past suffered this disease. For example, Robert Louis Stevenson and John Addington Symonds revealed in their writings the gradual progress of tuberculosis.

The famous poet, John Keats, who was himself a physician, and Aubrey Beardsley, the artist, also had a rapid hemorrhagic form of tuberculosis. The writer de Quincy and the famous writer on architecture, John Ruskin had a slowly developing fibrous form of tuberculosis. De Quincy, who wrote "Confessions of an Opium Eater," writes that his father died of consumption at the age of 39. He himself, however, lived to old age.

The father of Ralph Waldo Emerson died at an early age of tuberculosis and Emerson himself suffered with repeated ill health.

It is interesting to realize that the famous Johann Goethe had a severe attack of bleeding from the lungs in youth and that thereafter he recovered, producing a vast amount of world famous literature and dying eventually at the age of 82 with a second attack of bleeding from the lungs.

Tuberculosis was far more frequent 75 or 100 years ago than it is now. Among other great writers, artists, musicians as well as great physicians who suffered with tuberculosis we must include the names of Honoré de Balzac, Jane Austen, John Locke, Rene Levesque, Trudeau and Thomas Hood.

England is the greatest upland nation in the world, importing 132,000 tons more annually than Germany, which country ranks second in this respect.

Question

RAISING A FAMILY

By Olive Roberts Barton

Baby Can't Be "Sunny Jim" If Ill at Ease

(No. 46)
I am leaving baby's physical care to your doctor and to you, mother, but his health and comfort bear so directly on disposition that perhaps we might go over a few points together in general.

No baby is really sunny and sweet who does not feel very well. No baby will be "good" if his stomach is upset or if he is hungry. Many a child is hungry, as we know, who is being fed regular meals of high-quality milk and the full quota of permitted ration. This is because his digestion may be slow in assuming its responsibilities. Some few darlings cannot assimilate much of anything at first.

Fortunately, most babies do well on the diet that modern doctors prescribe. But even so, it continues to be a matter for deep study.

So, no matter how healthy your little one is, I suggest professional backing when it comes to foods. Fester the doctor and ask questions. It is a grand feeling to know that you are on the right track, if nothing more.

Checking Up

It is now almost a universal custom to have the new baby checked frequently, then once every month or so, depending on his condition. It is a good idea at such times to have ready for the doctor a list of questions about the things you want to know, such as enlarging or changing formulas and adding extras. And to have another report ready for his information. Weight-gain (it should be steady); the precise food formula you are using; the doses of cod liver oil; all about his own baths, and everything there is. It will save time to have it down in

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

by ELINORE COWAN STONE

Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS:
CONSTANCE MAIDWELL—heroine, the stand-in.
DEREK MANTON—an artist who loved money.
HILDEGARDE THORVALD—Derek's painted her portrait.
DR. ROGERS—he met his most difficult case.

Yesterday, facing an incredible assignment, Constance is about to depart by plane for California with Dr. Rogers to stand in for Tammy Wynette. The time is getting short.

CHAPTER XIII
CONSTANCE said in a moment of recklessness, at which she was to wonder later, "I still have no reason to think you're not insane, but—well, it will take me a half hour to pack."

Before she got out of the car in front of her own house, Dr. Rogers took a wallet from his pocket. "Since this is a business arrangement, Miss Maidwell," he said, "and since I don't imagine you habitually carry airplane fare to California around in your purse, I'd better give you something on account."

He stripped some bills from a roll and handed them to her.

"Here's enough to buy a round-trip fare—I don't want you to imagine you're being shanghaied—and a little for incidental expenses. Take a taxi to the airport. You'll find a ticket waiting for you in your own name. I'll meet you in the plane."

He might, Constance thought, have been instructing a nurse in the operating room, in full confidence that every command would be implicitly obeyed.

"Aren't you taking a rather long chance?" she asked.

"If I thought so," he said with a short unimpassioned laugh, "I'd bundle you up in a sack and carry you along as excess baggage."

And he looked for an instant grimly capable of doing it.

"You needn't be concerned about taking the money," he added a little impatiently as Constance looked uncertainly at the bills in her hands. "The boy's father will make it good, and be only too glad to pay you for any inconvenience this may cause you. . . . Now you'd better run along. Allow at least a half hour to get to the flying field. . . . And, oh yes! Better take along some lightweight clothing. It will be much warmer there than here. Please don't be late. I've got enough to think about without walking the floor with a watch in my hand."

She was in her seat in the plane when Dr. Rogers came in. He greeted her very much as if he had unexpectedly recognized a pleasant acquaintance, chatted impersonally for a few moments; and then he went with an air of finality back to his own seat.

"And now?" his friendliness suddenly merged into a briskly professional manner. "I think you'd better get to bed as soon as the stewardess can get your berth ready. I'll call her and—" "Bed?" Constance said blankly. "But I never go to bed so early. . . . Oh, you needn't take the trouble," she went on with malicious amusement as his hand moved in what she had come to know as an habitual gesture. "I have a watch, too."

She found herself disproportionately annoyed by his brusque shift from friendliness to this impersonal matter-of-factness.

"Though you may not guess it," she went on perversely, "I've really been out of boarding school for some time."

For a moment he examined her with that curious, tolerantly amused look she had come to recognize. . . . As if, Constance thought with growing resentment, he were trying to decide just what kind of unpredictable bug I might turn out to be.

FINALLY he said—obviously trying to be patient—"Perhaps I'd better remind you that you may have a hard day ahead of you. You'll need all the rest you can get."

"Please don't worry about me, Dr. Rogers," she said; "I thrive on sleepless nights."

Without a word he turned stiffly back to his own seat.

Indeed! Constance thought, watching him with covert malice. We get a lot of fun out of standing off and feeling superior and amused, don't we? But it isn't so funny when people refuse to take us as seriously as we do ourselves, is it?

She took a great deal of satisfaction out of sitting up a good hour after her usual bedtime.

Snuggled into her amazingly comfortable berth, Constance began to realize for the first time in that dream-like evening, exactly what was happening to her.

Once in California, it was inconceivable that she should not see Derek. And once she had seen Derek, all the doubts and petty fears of the past few weeks would drop away like mist. She would lose that feeling which had begun to possess her that Derek had gone away into another and different world, and by that very act, had become different, himself; so that he no longer even spoke a language she understood. She fell asleep dramatizing those first few moments with Derek.

There was a car waiting for them when they landed. The chauffeur, who seemed to know Dr. Rogers well, said, "I am to take you directly to the ranch, sir. Miss Thorvald asked me to say she was sorry not to—"

"Miss Thorvald?" Constance said faintly. "Does he mean—is it the Thorvald ranch we're going to? . . . But I can't do that!"

It is also a good idea for the inexperienced mother, who knows little about "handling" a baby, to invite a nurse in for half a day, or a more experienced friend, to show her the tricks of easy bathing, and explain about oil rubs; methods of keeping food containers boiled; ways of insuring against germs; how to keep baby's bed smooth and dry, with easy changes of pads; how to dress him for the weather and how to pin a diaper nicely so it won't lump or slide. If an advisor is out of the question, it is often possible to go to a class on baby care.

It sounds complicated, but actually the right start is practical and very worth while, because a comfortable child is a happy one, usually, and his summiness has much to do with his attitude toward people, and theirs toward him, as well.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

Inside the Vatican With a Reporter.

Probably the strangest reportorial stunt in the world is that of covering the papal court in Rome. In the first place, the Pope is seldom interviewed, and may never be asked questions. And in addition the reporter has to obtain an ed by its very nature intricate and involved.

Thomas B. Morgan, veteran United Press correspondent, has covered the Vatican since 1921. Those 16 years have encompassed a wealth of history and Morgan has packed a whole of a story into his book, "Reporter at the Papal Court" (Longmans, Green; $3).

As sheer journalistic writing, it's a grand effort. Actually it's a narrative of the reign of Pius XI, beginning with the death of Benedict XV. You go behind the scenes for the first time for that incomparable story of the election of Pius; how Cardinal Laurenti had previously refused this powerful office; how Archibute Ratti, a relatively obscure priest, had risen to the rank.

No Pope in modern times has had a more dramatic reign than Pius. Morgan recounts, again from the inside, the reconciliation of the Holy See with Italy, the subsequent quarrel with Mussolini. And here too is a close-up account of life in Vatican City from the coffee shop to St. Peter's most sacred sanctuaries.

If you've wondered about the importance of the Vatican as a focus of world news, you ought to read this book. It's probably the most intimate account of this vast institution that one is likely to see in a long time.—P. G. F.

In Europe, hickories, magnolias, sassafras and sequoias, which are found in growing abundance in the United States, are found only in fossil form.

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

Give a Pressagent a Yarn He Can Stretch, and . . .

HOLLYWOOD—Fans who read about Hollywood must find it increasingly difficult to decide whether this place is a stronghold of efficiency and high purpose, or whether it is just a plush-lined booby-batch.

Some days ago, while housebound by floods, your correspondent got to thumbing through a bale of the press-agent material which is hopefully sent out by studios not only to local writers, but all over the country. One of the first items I scanned was this statistical note from Metro:

Clark Gable affixed his 2,000,000th autograph for "Ducky" Pond, coach of the Yale University football team. The star has kept accurate check for his first autograph six years ago as the result of his performance in "A Free Soul."

Two million autographs figure down to about 913 a day, counting Sundays, and represent approximately two hours of work out of each 24. And as for keeping an accurate check, it is clear that Mr. Gable could not have thought about much of anything else for six years than how many times he had written his name. (The truth is, of course, that he probably doesn't average 10 autographs a day, and never has tried to keep track of them.)

Pretty Sticky
What would Dick Powell's fans think of him if they were to try to believe this item: "Dick Powell has used to date a total of 67,894 postage stamps retrieved from fan letters in papering a room at his home?"

The false picture becomes unflatteringly clear. Mr. Powell claps his hands and gibbers delightedly as the mailman pours another sick of fan mail on the front porch. The star then begins soaking the stamps off the envelopes, and with paste pot and step-ladder sticks them one by one on the wall. . . . "Sixty-seven thousand, eight hundred and ninety-two; sixty-seven thousand, eight hundred and ninety-three; sixty-seven thousand, eight hundred and ninety-four. Oh, Joan! Call the publicity department, will you, and tell 'em that the score now is sixty-seven thousand, eight hundred and ninety-four. You might call the production department, and say that I won't be able to make any more pictures for a few months. This papering job is taking all my time."

End of the Line
I found a rather fascinating story about Anita Louise. It declares, for one thing, that Miss Louise never has been on a street car in her life, which is surprising in view of her Brooklyn girlhood. Also it is claimed that Miss Louise's hobby is collecting street car transfers from all over the United States. That's right—street car transfers. Can't you just imagine her fluttering prettily over some choice new item, such as a 10 a. m. northbound Troost Avenue-to-Prospect-line Kansas City transfer? Well, I can't either. Fortunately, neither can Miss Louise herself.

Now let us take our butterfly net and go after Jimmy Stewart. It is said that Stewart is compiling "the most original scrapbook in Hollywood," a book containing "a caricature of every player with whom he has worked," together with "a short musical score inspired by their personalities." Stewart has worked with hundreds of players, most of whom he hasn't known well enough to say "Good morning." He is neither a caricaturist nor a composer.

And Still More
Here are some other pressagent stories which can be reprinted without comment: "Barbara O'Neil treats her friends to chow mein every Saturday night. The secret is that she receives a shipment of the food by plane from Minneapolis in hermetically sealed containers because, she says, the Minnesota city serves the best Oriental dishes in existence."

"Eat O'Brien is completing arrangements to buy the stage door, frame work and all, of the Chicago theater where he and his wife Elvira first met. It will be installed as a shrine in their home."

"Anne Nagel may ride a horse at Santa Anita if she can induce a certain owner to let her substitute for one of the jockeys."

"Dick Foran has a pet parrot that brings him his pipe and shippers when he arrives home from the studio at night."

"Hugh Herbert is displaying a lump on his head which he received from a horsekick which was dropped on him by a chicken hawk."

"Stub toe," "Bonzanza" and "Treasure" are some of the nicknames for the state of Montana. Its state flower is the bitter root.

New Frontier

There still is left to men a new frontier; Let none believe there is no virgin soil. For venturing, no land for pioneer. To prove with plow and harrow. Fruit of toil. Beyond the dream of harvesters remains. There is a land so beautiful and fair That all is ordered well, both sun and rains. And men arrive in caravans of prayer. Unfathomed arens are yet untrod Where peony vistas lie on every side For him who goes adventuring with God. A man needs only faith for chart and guide. And prayer, to reach the place that angels hold. Let's help earth breathe again, make ways to end. And find the mystic rainbow's pot of gold— Let's pioneer anew, O brother, friend! —Selected.

All Y. W. A. girls of the First Baptist church who are planning to attend the banquet in Little Rock on April 5, are requested to place their expense money with Mrs. Hugh Jones by Sunday, March 26.

The Friday Music club will hold its regular meeting on Friday afternoon at 3:30 at the home of Mrs. C. C. McNeill on North Hervey street, with Miss Harriet Story as joint hostess and Mrs. Fred Harrison leading the study.

Charles Wylie left Sunday for Shreveport, La., where he has accepted a position with the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas company. He will be joined in residence by Mrs. Wylie in about two weeks.

Mrs. Carroll Nordean and Mrs. Frank Nordean of Okla., were Wednesday guests of Miss Mary Louise Keith.

There will be an important meeting of the Hope Garden club at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the apartment of Mrs. D. B. Thompson, in the J. H. Arnold home on North Hervey street.

The Band Auxiliary will sponsor a cake walk on the down town streets at 7:30 Saturday night. The public is cordially invited to take part.

Mrs. Terrell Cornelius was hostess on Wednesday at a most attractive luncheon at her home on South Pine St. honoring Mrs. Glenn Graham of Three Rivers, Mich., and Mrs. H. M. ## What TVA Means ferable to any other. "I know of six families who have come back to Meigs county since we got the TVA power," he says. "They are people who had gone away because there was nothing here. The people with brains and ability mostly did leave these parts in the old days because it was no way to live. "We want to live as other Americans live. Now, with electricity, we can, and people drift back. That ought to help eliminate congestion in big cities.

"The way it has been, the kids go away to school and college and they come back home and find the old-fashioned way of living isn't good enough. They are dissatisfied. Now they can stay and still live decently; we won't be losing all our bust blood to the cities.

It Takes Faith "Of course it doesn't pay now. But it will all pay off some day. You have to take it all on faith."

This faith, in the future, expressed by an obscure county agent in the remote Tennessee hills, is the keynote to the whole TVA experiment, which is geared to 20 and 50 years in the future for its full fruition.

Very little TVA power is distributed directly. It is sold to 18 municipalities (17,782 customers), 16 co-operative associations formed to distribute it (18,136 customers), 1850 temporary direct customers, and 1516 customers on government reservations.

Baldies Want Cheaper Barbering

Barbering fees by the acreage instead of by the head would be the universal custom if bald-headed Roy Warlicki, of Chickasha, Okla., shown getting a trim above, were successful in his new campaign. Warlicki has organized a Brotherhood of the Baldheaded, whose members, all "baldies," are pledged to fight for fees in proportion to the amount of scissoring required. But George Hudson, the tonsorial artist above, is agin' the BBB campaign. He agrees with his brethren that eye strain from looking at polished domes makes the regulation fee eminently fair.

The Meigs county association and Dayton projects described above are not "TVA prize exhibits"—in fact, the publicity offices of the TVA regard them as among their less attractive accomplishments, preferring to describe such communities as that in Lauderdale county, Ala., where 1210 customers have bought almost a half million dollars' worth of appliances and house-wiring materials.

But they serve to demonstrate what TVA is doing in small, out-of-the-way communities in the great valley.

Agri Leaders Open

In the United States, and in Arkansas, the government and the people are partners in the carrying out and development of the extension program," C. C. Randall, assistant extension director, told the group. "It was the intent of the Congress in establishing the Extension Service that it should be an agency for the benefit of all rural people, and that it should be the connecting link between the land grant colleges and all the farm people in the state.

"In such a state as Arkansas, where agriculture is the most important industry, and where approximately 85 per cent of the population is dependent upon the land as a source of income, the obligations of the Extension Service to reach all people is a great one. It is a responsibility in which the people themselves must share, because it is their own program which the College of Agriculture is developing and executing through the Extension Service.

Loan Groups Show Hike in Business

$300,000 Per Month Is Average—Payment Equal to Rent

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—During February the 37 insured savings and loan associations in Arkansas made 193 home loans aggregating $237,863 according to figures just compiled by the Federal Home Loan Bank of Little Rock. This was an increase over January, and the figures compare quite favorably with the volume of loans made during the other recent fall and winter months. The Arkansas associations loaned an average of $300,000 per month during the last half of 1937, the greatest amount being advanced in July.

In addition to new construction, increased interest in the purchase of existing dwellings is reported by the Bank, many loans being granted to assist buyers to finance their purchase transactions. Frequently, the loans included a sufficient amount to care for the cost of modernization and repairs of the dwellings bought. The loans were made on the popular monthly direct-reduction plan, payable over a number of years, with payments about equal to rent.

The lending activities of the Hope Federal Savings and Loan Association whose shares are insured, are included in the figures prepared by the bank. With the approach of spring, much more home building activity is anticipated and bank officials stated the associations have ample funds to care for the expected increased loan demand. In addition to their own resources, the associations have available, when needed, the facilities of the Federal Home Loan Bank System of which they are members.

New investment funds received by the insured associations of Arkansas in February totaled $193,000. For the past year the savings placed in the associations have shown substantial gains month by month which bank officials attributed largely to increased confidence on the part of the investors in the associations whose accounts are insured against loss up to $5,000 each by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Move for Probe of TVA Meets Defeat

Critics Say Court Declares Presidential Powerless in His Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt's removal of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan from chairmanship of the TVA stirred up a tempest in Congress and produced more emphatic demands for a thorough investigation of the power agency.

Democratic objections, however, blocked two efforts in the Senate to set an inquiry going immediately, although one of the objectors, Senator Barkley (Dem., Ky.) the majority leader, said there was no question of "the desirability" of such an investigation.

A message to Congress in which President Roosevelt cited reasons for dismissing Dr. Morgan served only to increase the controversy. For it was accompanied by an opinion from Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson asserting the president was vested with authority to remove members of the TVA board from office.

This proved a highly disputed point. Critics of TVA contended the Supreme Court had declared the president powerless to take such action. Others argued that the tribunal, while preventing presidential removal of certain officials with quasi-judicial authority, left him free to dismiss officers like Morgan. Dr. Morgan, himself, was in Chicago.

The Senate had hardly convened when Senator Bridges (Rep., N. H.) demanded immediate consideration of his resolution for a joint congressional investigation of TVA. Barkley objected, saying the inquiry should not be conducted by "partial investigators." Bridges has openly asserted that he wishes to be a member of the investigating committee.

The New Hampshire senator charged that President Roosevelt had convicted an "innocent man" at a "sort of drumhead trial" which did not get at "any of the facts." He demanded that Congress remove or suspend David Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan, Dr.

Replica of Raleigh Fleet to Dock at Island Stage

MANTEO, N. C.—(AP)—Real ships will sail upon a seaside stage during the second season performance of Paul Green's "Lost Colony" beginning July 3.

A huge four-level open air stage, upon which the patriotic drama is enacted, is being remodeled to permit a replica of Sir Walter Raleigh's flotilla to dock at the stage and disembark the first English settlers upon Roanoke Island in a realistic manner.

The pageant, to be presented as a part of the 350th Anniversary Virginia Dare celebration, has been described by one critic as the "patriotic Oberammergau of America."

Green wrote the play as a patriotic contribution to his state and has refused to allow it to go to Broadway or Hollywood, insisting it is solely for Roanoke Island, where the events it recreates took place.

MANNING, W. Va.—(AP)—Manning High School students struck demanding—of all things—a longer term.

Threats of the new Austrian Nazi regime to hold former Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg's 11-year-old son, above, as a 'pledge of his father's discretion,' were reported to have caused Schuschnigg to cancel his plans to leave the country after the Hitler coup. "I prefer to face my accusers," he was quoted as saying. The lad, Kurt, Jr., is shown kneeling during a public dedication ceremony in Vienna while his father still was chancellor.

Dry States Prove Big Liquor Buyers

30 to 40 Per Cent of Tax Comes From Bordering States

LITTLE ROCK—Revenue Department officials estimated that from 30 to 40 per cent of the liquor on which taxes were paid in Arkansas during the year ending March 1, was sold in neighboring dry states, including Oklahoma, Kansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and dry sections of east Texas.

The state liquor tax netted the state $1,119,419.65 during the year ending March 1, 1938, compared with $851,185.23 for the year ending March 1, 1937. The tax last year, however, was 65 cents a gallon, compared with 40 cents for the preceding year.

A flourishing dry-state trade was indicated, they said, by the fact that the larger Little Rock wholesalers have established branch offices in such bordering towns as Fort Smith, West Memphis and Sloan Springs. All sales to dry territory, they said, are made by Arkansas retailers to bootleggers from the dry territories.

Proposes Measure to Reduce Auto Speeds

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Rep. W. H. Abington of White county introduced in the house a bill requiring the equipping of automobiles with "governors" to limit their maximum speed to 35 miles an hour. The limit for trucks would be 25 miles.

The proposal, which Abington said was to "make the highways safe" would apply only to 1934 or later model cars.

"That's the only way we're ever going to reduce accident deaths in this country," Abington said.

Ten years ago the veteran legislator sought but failed to obtain passage of a similar bill.

GIRL SCOUTS

At the Girl Scout Council meeting at the city hall on Wednesday afternoon, plans were made for a city-wide cookie sale on May 1; also plans were completed for each of the four troops to sponsor a rummage sale within the next three or four weeks. The first to be held on Saturday, March 26. The girls will appreciate donations for these sales, as they hope to make enough money from the cookie and rummage sales to complete their hut at the Fair park. Miss Bonham, field secretary, will be in our city from April 15 to April 23 for the purpose of training leaders, and making contacts with sponsors and all who are interested in Girl Scout work.

Fight for Roads Heard at Warren

South Arkansas Group
Demands Parity for This Section

WARREN, Ark. —(AP)—The South Arkansas Highway Association called on the state Highway Commission Wednesday for parity for this section in the allocation of road construction funds.

An Executive Committee was named to "take immediate and persistent steps to obtain allocation of any money made available to the Highway Commission for road construction in south Arkansas until such time as this section obtains the parity expressly intended by the Martineau road law."

Members of the committee are C. E. Palmer, Texarkana; Judge Frank J. Hale, Mount Ida; Judge Clyde E. Byrd, El Dorado; Judge E. P. Toney, Lake Village; Emmett Sanders, Pine Bluff; V. B. McCloy, Monticello, and Judge J. W. Burnett, Stuttgart.

39 Counties Represented
Data was presented before representatives of 39 south Arkansas counties contending that the state had failed by $15,000,000 to give this section parity with others in highway work since adoption of the Martineau road law in 1937.

Highway Commissioners John H. Vogel, El Dorado, and Hugh Benton, Fordyce, and Assistant Highway Director V. E. Scott assured the association of co-operation.

Association President L. L. Mitchell of Prescott said that the newly appointed Executive Committee would be called to meet in Little Rock soon for a conference with Governor Bailey and the Highway Commission.
Star City was given the next general meeting of the association.

$51,000 Damage Suit Follows Auto Wreck

BLATHEVILLE, Ark. — T. I. Seay and W. H. Heath filed suit in Circuit Court here against Dr. E. C. Cope of Hornersville, Mo., a few hours after an automobile wreck on Highway 61 south of Blatheville, in which Seay and Heath and Mrs. John Dunmire of Memphis, and Mrs. Cope were injured.

Seay and Heath, charging the accident was due to negligence of Dr. Cope, driver of one of the two automobiles, asked damages totaling $51,000.

A writ of attachment was issued by the Circuit Court against Dr. Cope's car. Both machines were damaged badly. Victims of the accident were reported improving.
All except Mrs. Cope, who was only slightly hurt, are in a Blatheville hospital.

McKechnie Banks on Mound Staff to Haul Reds From Cellar

Fifth of a series from the spring training camps.

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

TAMPA, Fla.—The Cincinnati Reds are running, which wouldn't be so unusual if not for the fact that they're managed by the ultra-conservative Bill McKechnie.

Wilkinsburg Will likes to play 'em close to the vest, but says that there are too many AA players on the Rhineland roster to play major league baseball as it should be played.

"This outfit has to run to get anywhere," smiles McKechnie, pointing out that it finished a snacking last—40 games behind the New York Giants—in 1937.

McKechnie was credited with having performed something in the nature of a miracle in guiding the stingless Boston Bees to fifth place last season—only one game behind the fourth-place St. Louis Cardinals.

The 30-year-old right-handers, Jim Turner and Lou Fette, established a major league precedent to enable Wilkinsburg Will to do this. Never before in all the history of the big league had two first-year men each accounted for 20 games.

And it is with superlative pitching that McKechnie this trip hopes to hoist the Reds from the dark and damp confines of the cellar.

Baseball clubs seldom have such a pitching nucleus and as many fine mound prospects as the Reds, and McKechnie hopes to do something with the assemblage. Along this line, he considers Willard McKee Herschberger the most important individual on his payroll.

Will thought enough of Willard to pay the New York Yankee organization $25,000 for his contract, and to give its Newark farm first baseman Les Scarcella for the forthcoming campaign.

Has What It Takes
Schnozzle Lombardi is a splendid hitter and thrower, but a catcher has to be able to do something besides hit and throw to satisfy McKechnie, who emphatically does not like Lombardi's handling of pitchers. He would like to make a deal for the large Lombardi.

The fiery Herschberger was the mainstay of the Newark Bears, who bagged

Lee Gamble

Lee Grissom

the International rag by 2½ games, and comes to the Reds with a background of eight years of minor league stardom. He was rated the slickest backstop in the minors.

McKechnie also has put the veteran Virgil Davis to work on his young pitchers. The versatile Dee Moore, with Syracuse last term, is another catcher.

McKechnie has an established pitching luminary in Paul Deringer. Long Lefty Lee Grissom should be the National League's new strikeout king.

Gene Schott had an earned run average of 2.98. Peaches Davis' sinker keeps the ball on the ground. Al Hollingsworth has exceptionally fine control for a left-hander.

Whitney Moore, back from Syracuse, has everything a young right-hander needs, and like Johnny Vander Meer, a left-hander recruited from the same club, has been a strikeout specialist in the minors.

Dutch Gehrmann, a big lumberman from Oregon, was voted the top right-hander in the Piedmont League last year, his first in the professional game. Joe Vitelli bagged 17 games for Albany. Ted Kleinhaus, the left-handed workhorse, is up again—this time from Kansas City, and Joe Casarella completes the present staff.

Gamble and Craft, Mississippi State football captain of 1934, are as fast a pair of flycatchers as you would care to see. Gamble made nine hits in 13 swings that were good for 15 bases in his first three spring games. He looks like a sweet spring hitter, and McKechnie proposes to let him get 'em while the gettin's good. His only handicap appears to be a weak arm.

Craft and Gamble exchanged jobs last June, Craft going from Waterloo to Syracuse. Craft hit .357 for Waterloo, and wasn't slowed down to any noticeable extent with the Chiefs or later with the Reds. Gamble wound up with a Western League mark of .347.

Handy to Have Around
McKechnie has George (Kiddo) Davis, the former Giant who still is a corking defensive outfielder, as a safety valve. The club doesn't want Chick Harley.

Anthony Bongiovanni, up from the Portland Coastiers, has a long way to go. That's a break for National League linotype men, but Bill McKechnie wouldn't spare them if he had any idea that Bongiovanni could swat the ball against the boards.

As things are, Wilkinsburg Will is trying to figure out how some of his noble athletes can steal first base.

The first separate children's court was established in Chicago in 1899.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a house guest volunteer to help a hostess who has no maid?
2. Are artichokes served whole at formal dinners?
3. How does one eat the heart of an artichoke?
4. Must one answer an invitation to a tea?
5. At a luncheon should one wait for the guest of honor to go into the dining room first?

What would you do if—
You have a house guest who has extreme likes and dislikes as to foods?
(a) Cater to all of his whims?
(b) Plan well balanced menus and try to regard his dislikes?
(c) Ignore his whims?

Answers

1. Yes.
2. No, just the hearts.
3. With a fork.
4. No.
5. Yes.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or painful passages with burning, stinging, or itching show there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of aching backache, rheumatism, pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give better relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Salmon Ideas on Spring Run Into Your Lenten Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

Four out of every five get canned. Referring not to the problem of unemployment, but to salmon from the waters of Alaska, Washington and Oregon. From the can, salmon should leap into your menus.

Salmon Pastry Roll
(Serves 4 to 6)

Salmon filling: 2 cups canned salmon, flaked, 3 tablespoons melted butter, 1/2 cup celery, cut fine, 1/2 cup green pepper, cut fine, salt and pepper to taste, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Coat the celery and green pepper in the butter until tender. Add to the baked salmon and season.

Prepare your favorite pie pastry—a amount equaling 2 cups. Roll out 1/4 inch thick, spread on the salmon filling. Then roll as for a jelly roll. Place on baking sheet and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Serve hot in slices with creamed mushroom sauce.

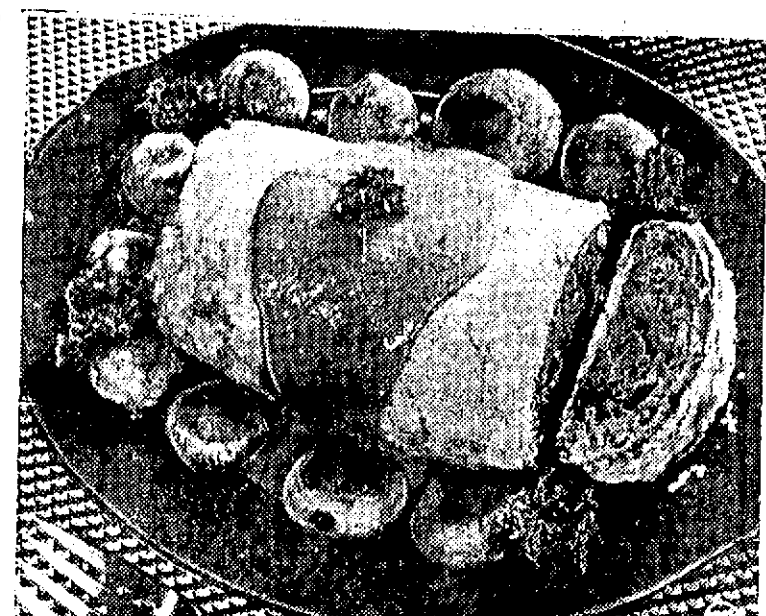

To make individual rolls, slice the pastry roll down in 2-inch slices as for cinnamon rolls. Place in buttered muffin pans in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot with creamed mushroom sauce.

Salmon is so versatile. It mixes well with tuna, its paler playmate with such gentle flavors. Here is the proof—Hot Seafood Salad Ring

(Serves 4 to 6)

Two-thirds cup of dry bread crumbs, 1/2 cup milk, 1 cup canned tuna, flaked, 1 cup canned salmon, flaked, 4 tablespoons mayonnaise, juice of 1 lemon, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped.

Soak the bread crumbs in milk about 10 minutes. Mix seafood, mayonnaise, lemon juice and salt. Add soaked bread crumbs, slightly beaten eggs and parsley. Pack in greased ring mould and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

If you think you've used canned salmon in every possible variation, just try this salmon pastry roll with creamed mushroom sauce on your family—and they'll cheer the Good News.

Cardinal Chain Is Dealt Heavy Blow

Commissioner Landis Makes Free Agents of 100 Ball Players

BILLEAIR, Fla.—(AP)—In a sweeping denunciation of the St. Louis Cardinals system of "working agreements" with minor league clubs, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis made free agents Wednesday of an estimated 100 players belonging to six Midwest teams and fined offending club owners $2,175.

Landis set free all players except one belonging to Cedar Rapids of the Three-Eye League, and all owned by Monett of the Arkansas-Missouri League, Fayetteville of the Arkansas-Missouri League and Newport of the Northeast Arkansas League.

In addition, Springfield (Mo.) of the Western Association was fined $1,000 for failing to keep its cards above the table. Cedar Rapids and Sacramento, the latter of the Pacific Coast League, each were penalized $588.

To List Players Later

The judge's decision undoubtedly was the opening gun of an intensive campaign aimed principally at Branch Rickey, operator of the Cardinals and father of the so-called farm system. Landis promised an additional statement in which he was expected to list all the players affected by today's decision.

In order not to place too great a hardship on the teams whose players were declared free agents, the judge stipulated that all players except one of Monett would be permitted to sign back for the 1938 season. The 17 "mooch" performers must look for other jobs.

Rickey Confused
Branch Rickey at St. Petersburg was as befuddled as the baseball writers until he had read the 5,000 word decision four times.

"I can't see how it's going to affect us yet," said Rickey. "The Springfield decision seems harsh, but I'll have to digest the whole thing better."

Undercover Deal Scored

Basics of the entire affair was, the decision of closes, a bit of work that has been going on between the Cardinals and Cedar Rapids for the last two seasons. Cedar Rapids wasn't listed as a card affiliate, yet, says the judge, "Investigation establishes beyond doubt or question that the Cedar Rapids club and its affiliates in 1936 and 1937 were merely adjuncts to the St. Louis system and that St. Louis controlled the players of two clubs in each of the three class 'D' leagues in 1936 and in each of four class 'D' leagues in 1937."

"Throughout this period," the judge continued, "St. Louis and Cedar Rapids represented that there was no agreement or understanding between them, and so certified officially in purported compliance with the rules."

The point is of course, that no major league club is permitted to control two clubs in the same minor league. That is what the Cardinals is accused of doing.

Mitchell, Fayetteville, Crookston and Newport came into the picture because they have been "farm" teams of Cedar Rapids, and, presumably, have been juggling around with players that the Cards wanted to keep strings on through Cedar Rapids.

The Cardinals-owned Springfield club was accused of having done some dealing with the Monett team, ostensibly for itself, but actually for St. Louis. Judge Landis refers to it as "another gentleman's" agreement.

Sacramento, also owned by the Cards was charged with having transacted a "wash sale" with Newport. This is a business where a player is "bought" all legal and above board, and Judge Landis notified, and then the money returned in the back room.

There was one touch of humor in the decision. Judge Landis explained how the Cedar Rapids investigation happened to begin. In 1936 and 1937 his office noted, Cedar Rapids suddenly built up an extensive farm system when everybody knew it was a community enterprise and non-profit making. So one of the judge's operatives looked up the bank account of this expanding outfit and discovered it was exactly $35.65.

What makes the decision not quite so funny is the fact that any player who has been with Cedar Rapids, even momentarily, since they began doing business with the Cards two years ago undoubtedly will be declared free when Landis gets around to announcing names. Three might be a player or two of prominence in the bunch.

Two CCC Youths Are Crushed to Death
LEESVILLE, La.—(AP)—Two 20-year-old CCC enrollees were crushed to death last Wednesday under the collapsed wall of a gravel pit in which they had been working near here.

The victims were Hillary M. Clark of Oakdale and Lester Bustin of near Elizabeth.

Cause will be paying good bail by mid-summer.

Connie Mack is due an assist if Case makes good. The youngster reported to the A's three years ago as a pitcher and it was the Tall Tutor who recommended he utilize his speed in the outfield.

Owner Clark Griffith tabs him as the best bunter he's seen in many training sessions.

Case really doesn't know how to steal bases. He has a tendency to fall on his arm when he hits the dirt and the question often is not whether he's safe or out, but whether he broke an arm or a leg in the effort.

So Milan is having him wear those sliding pads thin in practice drills. He's teaching him to keep his arms outstretched and behind him when he hits the sand, how to flatten out and give the infielder only a toe as a target to tag.

If Case makes the grade—and they're giving him every possible opportunity—it will mean the end of grand old Al Simmons as a regular. Simmons sowed up to a walk last season and Harris wants a younger, fleetier man out there.

As Bucking Bronc Busts the Bronc-Busters

Packed with dramatic action, the picture above was snapped at a Houston, Texas, rodeo when one of the bucking broncs ran wild and scattered cowboys like chaff. The man lying on the ground was as they made tracks skyward. Note the one in the black shirt on the left, scaling one companion's back and grasping another by the head. The latter, frozen with terror, clings to the arm of the man to the right, who is a little late starting. The rider of the bronco was thrown just one jump after the picture was taken.

Senators' Southpaws Might Be an Omen

ORLANDO, Fla.—(AP)—Every time in the last 15 years that Clark Griffith has had two or three good left-handers his Washington club has won the American league pennant.

He's got his southpaws again this year but no one is paying heed to past history and jumping on the Senators' bandwagon.

In 1924 Griffith had lefties Tom Zachary and George Mogridge. In 1925 there were Zachary and Dutch Reuther. Pennants both years. Then for a long stretch there were no porters. Finally in 1933 Griff came up with Earl Whitehill, Walter Stewart and Bob Burke. The Senators won the flag.

Griff has two rookie left-handers, Kendall Chase and Joe Kraskauskas, this year, along with the veteran, Elton Hoggset. But even Griff isn't optimistic enough to think history will repeat.

How Jackie Powell Worries the Yanks

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP)—Jake Powell, speedy outfielder, has given his Yankee mates some worried moments this spring.

Jake's a funster. He gets near a batter, touches the stick and then quickly bends over, groaning and holding his fact in his hands. The batter figures he's hit Jake in the eye with his backswing but just as they're ready to put in a call for a trainer, Jake comes up laughing.

Thirty or more species of Philippine lumber now are appearing in world export markets.

Connie Macks Says He Is Good for 10 More Years

BATON ROUGE, La.—(AP)—Unemployed baseball managers haven't a chance with the Philadelphia Athletics. Cornelius McGillicuddy indicated Tuesday.

"I'm good for at least 10 more years," Connie Mack, 75, told reporters here. "I'm right back where I was."

He said he had recovered completely from his recent severe illness. When he came South with the A's a month ago, Connie weighed only 119 pounds and he thought he might have to retire from baseball.

"I never thought I'd be able to work again," he said. But, within the month his tall frame took on 20 pounds.

Nonnenkamp Hits Home Run for Red Sox Team

SEBRING, Fla.—(AP)—A long home run by Leo Nonnenkamp Wednesday saved the Boston Red Sox from a shut-out at the hands of the minor league Newark Bears who won, 8 to 2, scoring five runs in the second inning.

Nonnenkamp's homer went over the right field wall, 350 feet from the plate. Local observers said the barrier had been cleared only once before, by Lou Gehrig, in 1936. After the third inning when Nonnenkamp and Bobby Doerr scored, the Sox went hitless.

A huge roadside bolder at Ardlin, Scotland, was split in halves by a tree which grew through it.

Kidneys Must Free Blood of Acids—Poisonous Waste

Kidney ailments won't wear away—you've got to do something to help these delicate organs function properly again. It's the same way with bladder trouble.

You know that the kidneys when healthy filter the acids and poisons and thru the bladder discharge them from the body. When the kidneys don't do this properly there are a number of signals that call for prompt action.

Backache is usually one of them and getting up two or three times a night is another. In some cases the palms of the hands are continually moist and puffiness shows under the eyes. Oftentimes the urine is scanty—highly colored or irritating.

It's best to act quickly. If you will go to your druggist and ask for a 35 cent package of "Ramon's" Brownie Pills for the Kidneys you'll be on the right track.

Most druggists think so highly of them that they gladly sell one package with a guarantee of satisfaction or money back—Ask for Ramon's Pills for the Kidneys.

Skipper Reports Spanish Torture

Tales of daily beatings during imprisonment at Palma, Mallorca, following capture of his vessel by ships flying the Spanish insurgent flag were told by J. E. Lewis, captain of the American tanker Nantucket Chief, shown above as he was greeted by his daughter, Ruth, 8, at Port Arthur, Texas. Lewis said he and his crew were jailed for "trading with Spanish Reds." His ship was carrying Russian oil to Barcelona.
